

PVC provides an economical solution for elevator and conveyor service. This specification is ideal for light to medium applications including grain or fertilizer. It is both durable and long-wearing with low stretch characteristics. Fire retardant, oil and moisture resistant, and static conductive properties, along with excellent fastener and bolt holding capabilities add to the value.